Assistive technology and facilities for Divyangjan

To ensure right to equity, our institution provides barrier-free environment to differently abled persons for convenient access of all the facilities available in the campus. The institution has installed a free open-source software "The Non-Visual Desktop Access (NVDA)" in the computers to assist the visually challenged students in learning. NVDA supports popular applications including web browsers such as Mozilla Firefox and Google Chrome, internet chat software, music players, and office programs such as Microsoft Word and Excel.
