

A Report Of The Orientation Programme On
Ethical Issues in Research
Kendrapara Autonomous College

Title of the Programme	Orientation Programme on Ethical Issues In Research
Date	14.03.2022
Venue	Commerce Block-3
Number of Participants	70
Resource Person	Prof. L.N. Dash, Former Professor, Fakir Mohan University, Baleswar
Summary	Ethical considerations in research are a set of principles that guide your research designs and practices. Ethical Issues has a key role in all types of research. Prof. Dash appraised the participants about the key ethical principles which every researcher should take into account while conducting a research activity. The issues are voluntary participation, informed consent, anonymity, confidentiality, potential for harm, and results communication. The programme was mostly participatory where the faculty researchers shared their issues of research for discussion.
Photograph

